JOHN ELLIOTT CAPTURED

WOUNDED
AND MAY BE DEAD

Believe John Elliott, Captured
Today, Was Injured by Pettis
Before the Farmer Was Killed

By BERT FORD.

Thompson, Ct., May 4.—John Elliott, was captured at 8 o'clock today in a shed on the farm of Rolland Mills, about three miles from the place where he shot and killed Miss Rybil Pettis and her father.

He made no resistance and was handcuffed and taken to the Thompson Jail. There it was found he had a wound in his head and a possible fractured skull. It was believed he received this injury in his struggle with Pettis before the latter was killed.

The man was taken to the home of Sheriff Bates and his head was treated.

He was then given some whiskey and raw eggs, after which he was taken to the Town Hall and arrested before Justice Randolph Chandler. The formal complaint, charging only the murder of Miss Rybil Pettis, was made by Grand Juror George V. Ballard and read by Attorney Howard C. Bradford.

THIRD TO MAKE STATEMENT.
Elliott was asked if he had anything to say and taking two steps forward he attempted to make a statement. He was an incoherent, however, that all that could be understood was "You got something in there about premeditation. I don't care to say anything."

A plea of not guilty was entered, and the murder was laid out, where he was photographed and then taken in an automobile to the Winthrop County Jail at Brooklyn Ct., where he will be confined without bail for the Superior Court.

He presented a pitiful figure while being arraigned. The man is scarcely five feet tall, weighing about 100 pounds. On his head was a bandage, one eye was closed and cut, and his head, face and body were covered with cuts and bruises.

MADE NO FIGHT.
Elliott, who had apparently been without food for the fifty hours since

Stranger Attacks Him on Platform of Street Car and Takes Roll of Bills From His Pocket.

Clifford Holman, an office boy, was overpowered and robbed of $300 in the rear vestibule of a Cambridge trolley car today by a strange man, who then leaped from the moving car and escaped.

Holman works in the office of the Sears, Roebuck & Company's shoe factory at Cambridgeport. He was sent to the National Shawmut Bank in Boston this morning with a $300 check to cash.

He was on his way back with the money when he was robbed by this man who, the police think, had followed him from the bank district.

The boy jumped from the car and chased the thief but lost him when the fugitive darted into the crowded street and was out of sight.

Holman is seventeen years old and lives at No. 16 Prince street, Cambridgeport. When he was unable to catch the thief, he hurried to the factory and told what had happened. The office immediately reported the case to the Cambridge police.

When the National Show-out called the $300 across the window to Holman, he had put the bills in an inside coat pocket. He returned to Cambridge by the Park street trolley, getting out at Central square and walking close to the factory.

Soon after these cars leave Central square, the conductor starts up to the front to pick up fares. It was at this time, apparently, that the thief found his best chance.

THIEF FOUND HIS BEST CHANCE.
Holman was standing in the back vestibule. This man, as he later related it at the office, grabbed him, ran down the aisle, took his coat pocket and clutched the parcel of bills in his hand.

Then, before Holman could pull himself away, he was pushed back into the car and the door was slammed shut. He tried to jump from the car, but without result.

He was on his feet for about 30 years old. He felt some kick in the back of the head, but with much life and was a derby hat and gray overcoat.

LIFE TERMS FOR JUNKMAN'S SLAYERS
Frank J. Tracy and Delavan J. Rogers, convicted of the murder of James M. Connelley, a junkman, today were sentenced to life imprisonment in State Prison. The men appeared before Judge Hays in the Superior Court and waived all exceptions.

German Bourse Unsteady, but All Information Points to Conciliatory Answer to the U. S.

Washington, May 4.—Secretary of State Lansing stated today that he has been officially advised by Ambassador Gerard that the German Foreign Office has promised to hand him some time today the reply to the American submarine ultimatum of April 18. The notification contained no intimation regarding the character of the reply.

Berlin, via Amsterdam, May 4.—James W. Gerard, the United States Ambassador to Germany, was in communication with the Foreign Office this morning. At the same time it was reported that the German reply to the United States note on submarine warfare would be transmitted immediately.

During the past twenty-four hours, Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg, the Imperial Chancellor, has been in communication with Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador in the United States, and it was accepted as a certainty that the negotiations referred to the German reply.

Some uneasiness on the House side, which was some relaxation of the optimism which has pervaded the financial and commercial circles. However, there was no serious indication that the reply would be anything but favorable.

TELEPHONIC MEN OPPOSE AGREEMENT
Pottsville, Pa., May 4.—Shortly before the convening of the legislative convention of the telephone workers which is considering the new telephone agreement with the operators, it was learned that in addition to the almost unanimous opposition of District No. 1 some objection to the ratification of the agreement had sprung up among other district delegates.

CLOSE-SHOP ISSUE IN NEW PIER STRIKE
Because officials of the United Fruit Company favor an "open shop" and refused to sign the agreement of the Freight Handlers' Union for a "closed shop," 200 men employed as freight handlers on Long Wharf refused to go to work today. Recently the union men employed at the wharf struck for a higher wage and the company granted it, but insisted on the open shop.

British Aim at Lens, While the French Gain North of Verdun; Report Civilians Flee from Metz

London, May 4.—Experts here believed today that the great Spring drive of the allies had at last begun.

French, British and German official reports united in announcing great attacks at either end of the line from Verdun to the sea.

The French attacks north of Verdun increased in violence and the French made gains. At the same time the British began a drive against Lens. A British dispatch says non-combatants are fleeing from Metz.

The effect of these two movements if they are successful will be to cap the famous German "pincer" tactics. The British drive is aimed due east, the French northwest. Any considerable advance at these points would put the Germans near Rheims and toward in danger of being cut off.

All signs point to the early beginning of an allied drive. It will have as one of its objects the capture of Metz, a strategic position following the German check at Verdun.

THE SIGN THAT POINT TO A DRIVE INCLUDE:
1.—The maneuver by which the British recently took over French lines on the west.
2.—The enormous concentration of French guns at Verdun, reported for two weeks past.3.—The arrival of Russian troops in France to add weight to the drive.
4.—The fact that the Germans have been pouring new into France and Flanders, evidently to meet an expected attack.

The German official bulletin today is especially significant. It admits that French troops have succeeded in getting a foothold in the German positions on Le Morre Heights. Simultaneously with the French advance.

SLAYER ARRAIGNED AND HELD

As he became a fugitive, uttered no word when summoned to surrender, but although he had been revealed, his movements were so guarded that Green knocked him down and set on him before he could reach the road. The farmhouse was discovered early today by William Miller, owner of the farm on the outskirts of Thompson. He was equipped in a copy of the case connected with the Mills farm. He was arrested on the farm, and immediately taken to the station. Green, armed with a shotgun, went to the entrance of the road and attempted to shoot at first Green, but failed. He was then taken to the station and held in a cell. Green, armed with a shotgun, went to the entrance of the road and attempted to shoot at first Green, but failed. He was then taken to the station and held in a cell.

His hand swung around toward an assassin's revolver, the butt of which protruded from out of his pocket. Before he reached it, however, Green had leaped forward and laid the man to the ground, where he held him while the others recovered the weapon. At every farmhouse in the neighborhood, precautions were taken to see that the dead outlaw did not get through near enough to repeat the act. The little house, however, was not so well guarded, and weapons were at all times within easy reach.

In some cases, ancient battle pieces which have not done duty for many years were taken down from their hooks over the fireplace and loaded, in grim precaution. While the chase continued, conditions resembled those of the days of the Indian wars, when every settler expected daily that his home would be raided.

With the cooperation of the Carranza forces, it is believed that the remnants of the Villa band will soon be crushed and that the American soldiers will be out of Mexico within 48 hours.

At the same time, the Carranza forces will be ordered to pursue the remnants of the Villa band, putting up her in the public halls in Miss Cunningham's barracks.

SUE EELERS

The late John Neesham, a wealthy citizen of Lowell, failed to take into consideration the fact that his heirs might be numerous, and as a result the Supreme Court of East Cambridge was today asked to straighten out a tangle caused by provisions of his will.

The will allowed in 1885, provided that after the death of his widow, and the last surviving issue of the children, the estate was to pay to the State of New Hampshire, the sum of $10,000 and certain property in Lowell, the income from which was to be used as a fund to care for the indigent blind of the State, "forever."

It was also provided that proper legislation should be passed which would benefit the State to accept the property. This property consists of real estate and buildings located at the corner of John and Merrimack streets, Lowell.

Twice the State of New Hampshire has passed legislation permitting it to accept the property, but owing to the longevity of the estate, the provisions of the will could not be carried out. The heirs now present themselves, he willing to pay to New Hampshire the sum of $10,000 on condition that the State assign the real estate to them. This the State is said to be willing to do.

In order to clarify the situation, the State of New Hampshire today filed in the Supreme Court of East Cambridge a bill to accept the property.

Among the heirs named in the will are John Neesham, Joseph A. Neesham, Isaac E. Neesham, Harriet P. Neesham, Isabel W. Neesham, and Felix W. Neesham.

ONE-CENT GASOLINE

There may be something in the one-cent gasoline after all.

The latest of the automobile public interest campaign today when it learned that the Maine Automobile Corporation, which is not in business, had paid out $100,000 for the gasoline manufacturing rights of the gasoline of Farmington, Long Island.

Another report quotes the price at $100,000 a cash stock.

The Little's gasoline is a green liquid. A little of this put in a gallon of water makes a fluid that takes the place of gasoline in an automobile.

And all this can be done for about one cent per gallon. Regular gasoline—the exclusive Standard Oil brand—costs from 15 to 25 cents a gallon.

Beyond the great financial success it also costs the poor-but-honest average citizen of Maine a considerable sum of money for the gasoline.

When the one-cent gasoline was first introduced, it was given the name "One-Cent Gasoline" and it was said to be a "dream" too good to be true.

RAD DRUG PARTY AND TAKE 4

By International News Service. New York, May 4.—Mrs. Barbara Morgan-Curtis-Hill-Traut, who is suing Chicago Traffic, the actor, for divorce, was one of four persons arrested in a series of raids in the apartment house No. 415 West Fifty-first street. The other prisoners were Josephine Harris, twenty-five, Henry W. Farmer, thirty-three, and his wife Mildred, twenty-six.

The apartment was later assigned to the Chicago Police. They were each held under $100 bail for trial.

On April 13, Mrs. Mildred Hodge, of Albany, was found dead in the apartment of Mrs. Margaret Laish in the same building. Mrs. Laish was unconscious. Mrs. Hodge had participated in a party during which narcotics had been used. Dorothy Miller, an actress, is at present held by the police in connection with this case.

In their investigation the police learned that "drug parties" were frequent occurrences in the building. Detectives rang the bell of Mrs. Laish's apartment. When a colored maid answered their summons, they passed her aside and rushed in.

Mrs. Laish would refuse to let them in. The police set that as they played her under arrest she attempted to resist the efforts of a patrolman to handcuff her. She was then taken to the police station.

The detective said that Mrs. Laish was at the party. They charge that she drew a big diamond ring from her finger and tried to throw it away. They would release her, she was wearing the ring when taken to the station.

HITCH IN PARDON FOR ARNOLD CLEW

President, R. I., May 4.—A hitch in the pardoning of Arnold Clew, the convict who confessed he took part in the alleged murder of Dorothy Arnold in the early days of the Boston Police, is due to the fact that he owes the State $125.50, it became known today. This amount is part of the $100,000 imposed upon him at the time he was sentenced. He has succeeded in paying part of the debt by his labor at the prison, it is claimed. The State prosecutor cannot, under the law, remit the debt, it is claimed.

For six hours the State Board of Pardons debated over the pardoning of Clew, four hours yesterday and two today.

Remorse was current at the State House, but the pardon board will give Clew an unconditional pardon, it was said. He will be set free, it was said. He will be set free, it was said.

MEN Filene's MEN

How Men's Tastes Differ!

Given a library, one man will turn to Ruskin and Carlyle, another to O. Henry and Bret Harte. One man will devour biography, while another finds it stupid stuff and demands fiction.

The Filene men's shops are like a huge clothes-library. As soon as a suit enters our stock it is catalogued according to the varying tastes of Boston men. No matter who the maker or what the price, each suit is numbered according to the type of man it will appeal to—

The man who wants a very conservative quiet suit—

The business man who wants dignity with a touch of style—

The young man who wants some touch that makes his suit different—

The man who wants a pinch-back suit that won't necessitate changing when he slips off to the links about 3 P. M.—

The man who wants a double-breasted suit—

The man who wants the enthusiasm of YOUTH woven into his clothes—

Each is cared for by "type" at Filene's

A Word on Filene $17.50 Suits

Included are "Pinch-back" suits for young men which are now holding the center of the stage.

$17.50 suits include those of practically all descriptions and for all tastes representing unusual efforts on our part to establish a new standard for value at this price.

Stein-Bloch and other good clothes for men, $15 to $35

Hail to the Return of the Corporation Lobby to the State House

THE present Massachusetts Legislature seems to be obsessed with a growing fear that it will not distinguish the return of the Republican party to complete power, after five years of defeat, by making a SUFFICIENTLY standpat record. This Legislature appears determined to make it clearly understood by the people of Massachusetts that the return of the Republican party to power in all the branches of the government means the return of the power of the corporation lobby and of high-handed methods by this invisible government.

Controlled by rich tax dodgers, they broke faith on the question of taxation reform and are now attempting to enact a tax dodging scheme which will make the inequities and inequalities of our present taxation laws as much worse and as much harder upon the man who owns real estate, machinery and other forms of property which cannot be concealed as it is possible to make it.

They have broken faith with Mr. Bird and the Progressive voters on their platform promise to provide reasonable hours for men and women employed in the industries which operate twenty-four hours a day.

They defeated without a ROLL CALL the demand of organized labor to prohibit the use of opaque glass in the factories. The workmen declare that this glass shuts out the sun, which is very much needed for their health.

They refused to break up the taxi-cab monopoly which controls the streets of Boston.

They refused to give the State Department of Health sufficient power to control the production of milk in the interest of public health.

They have defeated the initiative and the referendum demanded by a majority of the voters in the general State elections for the last four years, and by two-thirds of the voters in the special elections held in every legislative district on the question of the initiative and referendum.

They are now attempting to destroy the Public Service Commission because the Bay State Street Railway does not know how its demand for a six-cent fare will be decided by that commission and because the commission has had the temerity to recommend to the Legislature an appropriation for the purpose of investigating the charges and the service of the Telephone Company. A recent similar investigation in New York city has resulted in saving for the people who use telephones in New York city more than five millions of dollars a year in charges. Everybody knows that a greater proportionate saving to the people of Massachusetts ought to result from any honest investigation here on account of the more favorable conditions of doing business here.

The lobby of the Telephone Company has been urging the destruction of the present commission upon members to whom they think the less legitimate argument will not appeal, upon the ground that the present commission is largely Democratic and they ought to reorganize it to get the spoils of office. It is the old story of the wolf telling the sheep that they ought to get rid of the watch dog. Imagine the Telephone Company interested in the question of a Democratic or a Republican control of a Public Service Commission unless it happens that Democratic control means independence of the Telephone Company, and that Republican control would mean subservience to the Telephone Company. The Telephone Company wants a commission which it can control, if it is to be investigated.

After two years of pretending that it was willing to have an investigation of its charges and services, the Telephone Company now boldly announces its opposition to the investigation. As usual the controlled legislative committee has made a report against the recommendation of the Public Service Commission that this investigation ought to be held. If anybody is in doubt about the independence of the present Public Service Commission, let him study the attitude of the Telephone Company. Let him read the circular which the Telephone Company has just issued in opposition to the holding of an investigation THIS YEAR. The telephone service is bad, the charges are unnecessarily high and there never was a greater need for a thorough investigation of a public service corporation by an independent body than there is need for the investigation of the Telephone Company today.

But we do not want a farce or a mock trial. We do not want an investigation by a packed committee, which is the kind of a commission the Telephone Company is now trying to obtain by reorganizing the present Public Service Commission.

Where are the Progressives of the State—that great body of independent, middle-class citizens in whom were the brains and the character of the Republican party? Do they look with contentment upon this exhibition of power by the standpat element in the Republican party which their votes last year put into control? Are they pleased

THE SHIP THAT NEVER CAME IN

The Famous Song, "Are You Half the Man Your Mother Thought You'd Be?" Suggested This Picture to the Artist

The mother who entrusts her boy to the world is like the owner who sends a ship to sea. Mother and owner, full of hope, send out the messenger that represents hope and devotion.

Of the ships and the sons that go out, some never come back, and this powerful picture, suggested to the artist by a famous song, is a picture of the mother, and of the boy that never was "half the man that his mother thought he would be."

There are thousands of mothers waiting for "their ship" to come in, waiting for the return and the salvation of the boy to whom they gave everything, just as there are thousands of owners that wait in vain for the ship that went to sea.

Such men as the men in this picture, if they could see the lamp burning at home, the mother waiting, and realize what it means, would turn toward home's light, as the ship turns toward the lights of the harbor. It is difficult to overestimate the good that can be done through the influence of a powerful picture, or a song that touches the heart.

Many a man, still within the regions of hope, will owe his salvation to the influence of the song that has spread over this nation, with its powerful refrain: "Have you kept your promise to her that you made while on her knee?"

Can you truly say you're half the man today that she always thought you'd be? Is she proud to be your mother? Is it joy or sorrow in her eyes you see? Are you all she planned and prayed for, all she reared and nurtured and loved?

Are you half the man your mother thought you'd be?"

Bachelor's Failure to Find Home-Loving Women His Own Fault

Ella Wheeler Wilcox Denies Charge that Practically All Modern Girls Object to Housework and Children and Seek Only Own Pleasure

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

HERE is a letter from a bachelor who has some interesting things to say about marriage. It seems he read in this column some time ago a reference which he thought unfriendly toward bachelors. That was a mistaken impression on his part; but here is what he has to say, and it would be well for women, married and single, to read it carefully.

"I am nearly forty, extremely fond of children. My Christmas bill for dolls was over $30. My only reason for wishing to marry would be to have a little home nest of my own, but when I look around among the supposedly marriageable prospects I cannot name one who knows how to boil an egg or instruct a servant how to do so.

"Nor do I know one who would think enough of a home to keep it in order; so why marry, when the probabilities are that it would only be a step into purgatory?"

"Only this evening I was much annoyed at the restaurant by the miserable bickering of the married couple at the next table, and when I reached my apartment and retired I was kept awake a full hour by the quarreling of the quarrelsome couple in the next apartment.

Does Not Know One Marriageable Woman Who Loves Children

"I don't know a marriageable woman who loves children, though they will often pretend to, if they think to gain my favor by doing so.

"I don't happen to drink or smoke. Barroom company I detest, and anything like a club life would bore me. I want none of it while I have good books and a piano.

"When a man doesn't love a woman, what greater injury could he do her or himself than to marry her? Isaac Newton, Voltaire, Herbert Spencer and a few others were bachelors, and there are a few of us left, so please give us credit for being human beings, but give us a chance to meet some woman who has a little of the home instinct, and perhaps we would see an opportunity to change our state."

He who really seeks for anything finds it.

The bachelor who wants to meet his wife with the home instinct, if his mind is absolutely focused in that direction, will materialize them and they will become visible. In every village, country place, city and metropolis are hundreds of young women who possess the home-making instinct and who are waiting for some Prince Charming to come along and lead them home.

Meantime the best type of the modern young woman expects something from the man she marries besides his home and his name. She wants a man whose record would bear investigation, whose morals have not come into a state of fatty degeneration, whose blood is pure enough to be transmitted into the veins of children and whose idea of marriage is not merely that of establishing a home where a wife will provide him with well cooked meals on such evenings as he does not care to dine at the club, but who is willing to give comradeship and companionship to the woman who bears his name.

The outdoor young woman is in evidence everywhere. She is proud of her good health, proud of her ability to walk, swim, golf, tennis and ride. When she does not carry these accomplishments to an extreme, she makes an excellent wife, mother and housekeeper.

One great reason why women in cities do not like to become mothers is because of the outrageously unjust system of taxation which exists in the land.

Let this bachelor put himself in touch with the Joseph Fels Foundation Association of Cincinnati, and obtain from that association a copy of Mr. Huxlow's address, "What Shall We Do with Our Millionaires?" and he will be materially assisting himself in an effort to establish a home.

As a proof that women are not indifferent to the home, the bachelor should investigate the Home Makers' Guild of Chicago. The slogan of this society is, "Home makers are world builders."

Demands Same Recognition for Home-Making as Other Professions

This is their object: The object of the Home Makers' Guild shall be to claim recognition for the home and its allied activities as the basis of foundation of all State and national progress; to obtain for women the same recognition and honor for efficient home making that is awarded other skilled professions; to awaken in legislative bodies a larger sense of justice and appreciation for women who are engaged in home making.

To demand that all educational institutions incorporate into their curriculum such fundamental teachings of art and science as are needful for the creation of greater efficiency in developing the physical, mental, moral and social life of the home; to arrange for a series of honor medals to be awarded to women who have achieved special success in any department of home making; to conduct such educational propaganda as conditions may demand and to set apart the first Monday in October of each year as Home Makers' Day.

The membership consists of men, women and children who believe in the object for which the guild is organized and will work for the high ideal which the guild represents. The bachelor should join this organization.

Pan Pipes

By Jane McLean

PAN, wandering down the mountain side, his youthful feet astray, fingered his pipe, and lo! the world came out to hear him play.

"A song of faith," cried the child, "of daisy fields a-bloom."
"A song of love and dreams," soft breathed the lovers from the gloom.

"A song of victory," cried the man, "of valorous deeds and might."
"A song of safety," sighed the mother, "through the long, dark night."

"A song of peace," breathed the old, careworn and tired with strife,
And Pan looked on the world and smiled, and piped the song of Life.

Bernard Shaw Slashes Editors

"Put our English editors in the trenches and the enemy would not merely win—he would have a walk-over," is what Shaw says. This is the latest and best from George Bernard Shaw, who survives in London despite his fierce criticism of those who are running the government.
